Journey's End-Barbara Heise Grooman 2001-02-01 Journey's End is the story of a remarkable man, George Wells of Nebraska, an Orphan Train Rider. Readers first met him as the hero of Train To Red Cloud, A Small Boy's Journey. In these pages meet him as the author did... through personal letters, anecdotes from friends and neighbors who knew him, and the author's sentimental journey to Red Cloud to trace his steps. The train that brought him to Red Cloud was not the end, but the beginning, of a joyous journey through life.

The Journey's End-Mutia, Ba'bila 2016-06-13 When Akuma, a youthful African government secondary school teacher, leaves his hometown and goes to the capital city, he hardly knows that he will be paralyzed and will not be able to use his legs again. The Journey's End is a character-driven narrative that explores the lives of two men who meet in Yaoundé, the capital city: Lucas Wango, an elderly pensioner who comes to collect his back pay of seven years' pension money, and Akuma, a physically challenged man who helps him recover his pension arrears. Wango doesn't know that Akuma, aka Général, is a mobster and the boss of a city gang that commands and controls a better part of the metropolis. Running parallel to this central plot are two subplots that eventually converge at the end of the novel: Lucas Wango's meddling in and eventual frustration with national political life and Général's relationship with Martina, a woman with whom he falls in love in the city. Set in the rural African landscape of Yambe and Menamo - Akuma's home village which he left to come to the city, and the urban backdrop of the rapidly populated city of Yaoundé, The Journey's End epitomizes the predicament of Africa's expanding slum-cities, characterized by poverty, corruption, and survival-driven individuality. For whom does the journey end - remains an absorbing question that animates every single page in this extraordinary urban adventure.

Toward the Journey's End-D. E. Young 2020-05-18 The Christian life is a journey, as John Bunyan put it in Pilgrim's Progress, from the "City of Destruction" to the "Celestial City." The Christian's experiences are many and varied along the way. Sometimes, the Christian seems to be in "green pastures" and sometimes in the "valley of the shadow of death," yet the Shepherd is with him all the time and all the way. We have many blessings but also many trials in this "already but not yet" life. Already we taste something of the joy of heaven and the "powers of the age to come" but we are still beset with sin and weakness and must "keep on keeping on." It is hoped that this volume will bring encouragement to God's people to do just that.

Journey's End-Victoria Brewster 2021-09-16 In Journey's End, we write about death, dying, and end-of-life issues. We attempt to define and describe these real-life circumstances, and we discuss ways to proactively deal with them. Multiple personal and professional perspectives provide valuable insights. What is dying like for the dying person, for loved ones, and for those who lend support? Each experience will have unique qualities. While we explore the dying process, we make no assumptions about how any particular death will unfold. In Journey's End Part 1: Heartfelt Stories of Death and Dying, our primary focus is the personal accounts of laypeople and of professionals who support dying persons at the end of life. These stories, while unique in detail, hold universal truths for anyone experiencing the end of life. Our intention is to bring the topics of death and dying into the light, to provide a resource that can instruct and inspire compassion and understanding for anyone who is in the midst of their own or another's end-of-life journey.

Sacred Verses, Part Four and Epilogue-Gene Jackson 2012-07

This is the fourth and concluding volume of the quartet of "SACRED VERSES." The entire work is an approximate modern adaptation of Dante's "DIVINE COMEDY." In the PROLOGUE, a young man suffers a great loss in his life, and in addition, the loss of innocence and certitude that are characteristic of youth. This leads him to seek the meaning of the world and of his life. In Parts I, II, and III he explores the physical world, the philosophy or human thought throughout the centuries (the universe of ideas), and finally the spiritual meaning of life, as revealed by many scientists, philosophers and prophets. In each of these endeavors, he has a mentor (for Dante these were Virgil and Beatrice). In this, the final quest, it is Mother Teresa, who has said, "In the End, we all are One." Throughout these journeys, the young man ages and matures as he seeks (and eventually finds) a resolution of his quest. At the beginning and at the end of his search, he is counseled by the great Greek playwright, Sophocles. Eventually in the Epilogue, he is reunited with his loss and achieves a final resolution of his search and his journey.

Journey's End-J. Adams 2015-09-17 Blind since birth-the biological daughter of a mother who overdosed and a father she knew nothing about-Evangeline Patton was raised in prominence, but her inability to see made her fiercely independent. Italian chef and musician Adagio St. John had only wanted one thing in life - to find the rare kind of love his grandparents shared. When Evangeline and Adagio met, they had no idea how completely they would change each other's lives. With Adagio, Evangeline discovered the kind of love she never knew existed. And after seven years of marriage, their love continues to grow and she is more content than ever. Then a miraculous event happens that completely alters the course of the St. John's lives. In an ever-changing world where God is barely tolerated and all forms of evil are embraced, will Adagio and Evangeline be strong enough, and courageous enough, to hold fast to God's word and do His will? Journey's End is a story of love and redemption in the last days. Journey's End-Jacqueline Pere 2011 With no husband and no children, and no prospects on the horizon, twenty-nine-year-old Judith Marchand believes she's destined to lead a lonely librarian's life in her small town. But a classified ad intrigues her, and she's soon on her way to restore the private library of the de Lanvilles, a prominent southern Louisiana family. What she doesn't know is that this ideal job will also lead her down a path rife with seduction and murder. She's enthralled with Journey's End, the family's mansion. Against her better judgment, she finds herself falling in love with her mysterious employer, David de Lanville, a man who admits he once tried killing his brother Beau. Tensions run high at Journey's End, and the situation worsens when David is arrested for the beating and rape of a local young woman just one of several suspicious incidents in this rural area near New Orleans. David proclaims his innocence, and Judith must make some difficult decisions. Drenched in Cajun lure, Journey's End travels through the winding moss-covered bayous and New Orleans at Mardi Gras, following a killer who pursues his victims via the silent waters of Bayou Tech.
