Thomas Merton Selected Essays

The essays in this volume present a broad cross-section of Merton's work as an essayist, collected pieces that are characteristic examples of his continued naturalness and the humanistic balance of his thought. The essays range from the wisdom of the desert fathers to the novels of Faulkner and Camus, from interreligious dialogue to racial justice. The essays present the reader with the depth and richness of the experience of Thomas Merton and illustrate the correspondence between his writings and taped versions of his actual classes, and provide suggestions for further reading both in Merton's other works and in more recent studies of the figures he discusses here.
